DURYEA'S WIFE PROVOKED HIM

YOU'RE OF NO IMPORTANCE COM-PARED WITH MOTHER AND ME.

That's What He Says She Said-So He Took Charge of the House and Just Showed Her-Gen. Duryea Sides With His Son -Wife's Revelations to Dear Dad.

Gen. Hiram Duryea testified yesterday in the Supreme Court before Justice Blanchard on the side of his son, Chester B. whose wife, Nina Larre Durvea, wants a separation. Gen. Duryea said his daughter-in-law had often told him that her husband was very kind to her. Later he got this letter from her:

husband was very kind to her. Later he got this letter from her:

Dean Dan The following revelations may not be entirely a surprise to you. They are not written under a hysterical impulse, but are the result of three years careful consideration. So firm is my faith in your sense of justice and fairness that I can refer to you as the merits of the case.

For three years I have dragged my ball and chain with a seeminally smiling face, trying to escape my impulse to get away from an unendurable situation. Love, pride and abhorrence of public mortification nerved me to keep up the farce of a happy married life. My powers of endurance are now at an end and I have decided to end my wretched life with Ted.

He has outraged my life and destroyed the last atom of my respect for him by his senseless rage and abuse and his unnecessary insults which have been carried to an extent which I believe to be unparalleled among people in our station of life.

You will be amazed to know that the trouble began on our honeymoon. At Sioux City his temper and violence in public and private was such that twice I packed my trunk to leave him. He declared to me, "You have to learn that I am master and my commands must be obeyed." By the continuance of his conduct he has destroyed all chances of our being happy together. I had learned to dread the sound of his coming footsteps at this early stage of our married life.

Gen. Duryen denied having called his gon a "brute" after reading the letter.

this early stage of our married life

Gen. Duryea denied having called his son a "brute" after reading the letter.

He had told her, his daughter-in-law,
he said, that if any wrong had been done
her he would see that it was righted.

Chester B. Duryea, the defendant, was called. He denied generally and categorically all his wife's charges of cruelty, but admitted that there had been some differences between them. These he attributed to her conduct. He said that when he ventured to complain or criticise. Mrs.
Duryea would exclaim:

he ventured to complain or criticise. Mrs. Durvea would exclaim:

"Why, compared with my mother and myself you are a person of no consequence."

Speaking of the trouble in Sloux City he said that his wife and mother-in-law would not wait supper or luncheon for him. Their actions, he said, were intended to show him disrespect. He finally ordered the servants to serve the meals at his regular hours only, and he took charge of the household expenditures himself. He was "nagged" into taking this step.

The hearing will be resumed this morning.

Miss Willard's Statue for the Capitol. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 25.—A bill appropriating $9.000 for a statue of the late Frances E. Willard, to be placed in Statuary Hall in Washington, was passed by a vote of 102 to 16 by the Illinois Legislature yesterday. As the Senate passed an identical bill, the matter awaits the Governor's signature.

Lace Collars and Robes

Another Extraordinary Offering

DRESSMAKERS and other women competent to pass an opinion said that our Lace Sale last week was the most remarkable offering ever presented to the public. Certainly the goods offered were bought up in a jiffy.

Today we present a different purchase made abroad at the same time, and in some ways it is better than the previous offering, though confined entirely to Collars and Robes.

ARTIST SUED FOR FAKIRS' $300. John Ceell Clay, Defendant, Deplores Frivolity of the Other Side.

John Cecil Clay, a young artist, is being ued by the Art Students' League of New York on a promissory note for $300, which, can Fakirs in the spring of 1898. The note which matured in 1901, was transferred o the league and has not been paid.

Mr. Clay was seen yesterday in his studio at 7 West Thirteenth street and admitted that he had received $300 in 1898 from the Fakirs, which was, he said, the proceeds of an exhibition given by them. It was of an exhibition given by them. It was then planned, he said, to continue to give exhibitions of their cericatures and to save the money raised, together with the $300 he held, until there should be a large enough fund to yield an income yearly of $50: this was to found a scholarship at the league to be known as the "Fakir Scholarship." The Fakirs, he said, had not given any exhibitions since then and hadn't a dollar to their name. They are now trying, he says, to get the $300 back from him for the purpose of fixing up their present quarters.
